

RESEARCH DEVELOPMENT & COLLABORATION

Anna Bennett
anna.bennett@newcastle.edu.au

Jo Hanley
joanne.hanley@newcastle.edu.au

SIG Objectives

We adopt a supportive approach that offers online events and activities that bring together diverse perspectives in Enabling and related fields of research and evaluation.

- We strive to foster a vibrant research community where members collaboratively contribute to and shape the direction of the SIG.

We actively promote activities that bolster the NAEAA's research capacity and influence on both national and international levels.

The Research Development and Collaboration Special Interest Group aims to unite colleagues with a shared interest in research and evaluation related to Enabling programs, student transitions into and through higher education and lifelong learning, as well as widening participation, equity, and social justice in education.

CALL OUT FOR NEW MEMBERS

When you JOIN A SIG, you connect with a community of like-minded peers.
Contact the facilitators above to be a part of this group.

We are dedicated to contributing to other NAEAA activities and events, thus enriching the overall educational landscape.

We provide valuable insights on research and evaluation approaches, skill development, publishing, and projects.

NAEEA

Interested in being a member?

Scan the QR code

