I submitted the application for a partner visa
I was rejected because I had Hepatitis B
I applied for health waiver

But still rejected

I got a lawyer

I appealed for that result

I felt very painful, the whole process

I did so many [blood] tests in between

I hates tests now

I felt very painful, the whole process

I feel angry but also fear

I feel very, very scared

My relationship with my husband also damaged

We both so tired. Physically, mentally

I lost all my hope

everything is done

My [lawyer's advice] was devastating

I came as a permanent resident
I came as a permanent resident on 117 visa
I didn't have to worry about visa at all
I didn't have to worry about visa
I only had to worry about my studies

I got connected to [a HBV community organisation] for the very first time

I got [...] registered payment from Centrelink

I got me emergency accommodation in a hotel at the first time

[The community organisation] have really been there for me from the very start of my sickness journey

I was renting through a real estate agent

They just wanted me to leave [...] to homelessness

Well the landlord sent a letter to the Court

I got refer[ed] [by the community organisation] to [a legal service]

[The legal service] gave me the legal advice

I stay[ed] in the property

Due to this Hep B
I need to prove to the Department that I'm healthy
That I will not cost significant amount of money It's like 50/50 situation whe[ther] will my visa be refused or not

I can't take [the latest drug] at the moment
I'm too worried about my visa
If I take the latest one I'm pretty sure I'm going to be 99% I won't have the visa
We [PLHBV] are happy to take this expensive one because it's about our health
But Australian government have the standard
