Why a Memory Audit?

- ▶ Memory has always been a core part of the response to HIV and AIDS
- ▶ We are at a crucial moment in the response where there is a lot of vulnerability to our material history
- ▶ There is a lot of genuine interest in connecting to those who have come before us
- ▶ The strategies and forms of activism, community building, organising and expression of the past are important resources for those organising in the present and future

Notes on terminology

► DISCOVERABILITY

In an archival or cultural collections context, discoverability refers to the ease with which researchers, communities, and the public can find, identify, and access relevant materials.

► MEMORY INSTITUTION

A memory institution is a cultural organisation—such as a library, archive, museum, or gallery—whose role is to collect, preserve, and provide access to society’s documentary, artistic, and cultural heritage.

► CUSTODIANSHIP

Custodianship refers to the responsibility of a person or institution to hold, care for, and manage cultural or historical materials on behalf of others.

Goals of the project

▶ GOAL ONE

Identify what is the state of the material history of people with HIV in Australia with a particular focus on access and discoverability

▶ GOAL TWO

Improve or establish relationships with custodians of major collection holders with the goal of improving access and discoverability of objects

▶ GOAL THREE

Help guide our members in preserving their own history and give guidance that allows them to best decide which memory institution may be best suited to their preservation needs

The Tracing our Memories Database

Tracing our Memories

This database has been developed as part of the 2025 NAPWHA memory audit ‘Tracing our Memories’.

This database aims to bring together a comprehensive list of the historical materials of people with HIV in Australia currently held in Australian archives, libraries, museums and art galleries. All information below is accurate, to the best of our ability, at the time of publication. However, it should not be used in place of direct engagement with either the materials in question, or the institutions that house them.

If there is something you would like to see added to the database, or if you have any questions about either the project or any of the materials listed below, please contact Beau@napwha.org.au

 Please be aware that this database contains images, voices and names of deceased persons

This database is an ongoing body of work. Sometimes important information isn't available so fields may be left blank; we are progressively filling these in with further research. All materials belong to their various copyright holders. Images and information below is used as a guide only.

Please note that some items may reflect outdated, offensive and possibly harmful views and opinions.

Bib ID: 1843975

Format: Audio

Access Conditions: Access conditions set by each interviewee.Description: 1992 Mar. 18-2009
274 items.

Summary: The project consists of 82 interviews with a range of people including some of the key government figures who played a part in coordinating Australia's response to HIV/AIDS, community leaders, activists and representatives of the broader HIV-positive community.

Biography/History: The project recorded the social and political response in Australia to the AIDS crisis.

Notes:

- A project undertaken jointly by the Australian Federation of AIDS Organisations and the National Library of Australia.
- Transcripts made for all interviews.
- Each interview catalogued individually.
- Recorded from 1992-2009.
- Digital master available National Library of Australia

Related Material: Portraits of people interviewed for the Australian response to AIDS oral history project, 1993; located at: National Library of Australia Pictures collection PIC P530/32-52 LOC Cold store PIC PORT

Our challenges

- ▶ Engage with the materials, and the institutions that hold them
- ▶ Planning for the downsizing, amalgamation and potential end of our organisations what that means for these materials and access arrangements
- ▶ Build relationships between our communities and these materials, histories and the public history resources around them

Who is missing (to my knowledge)

► LARGE ORGANISATION ARCHIVES CURRENTLY NOT IN PUBLIC COLLECTIONS

- Community Support Network (CSN)
- ANKALI
- AIDS Council of South Australia (ACSA)
- ACON
- Thorne Harbour Health
- Bobby Goldsmith Foundation
- Living Positive Victoria
- Queensland Positive People
- WAAC
- Quilt Projects in a number of states

► SMALLER INACTIVE GROUPS MISSING IN COLLECTIONS

- Positive Asian Yum Cha Group
- Support of Positive Youth (SOPY)
- AZT Task Force
- Greg Nemer Foundation People Living with AIDS
- Body Positive
- HIV Complementary Therapies Collective of Sydney

► WHAT HAPPENS TO THE RESEARCH

Some of the broadest and most comprehensive collections of stories, histories and interviews of positive people in Australia have been as a tool of research. After the initial projects are done, and especially after the researchers involved are no longer with us, these materials can be essentially untouchable.

What next for the project

▶ CREATE A GUIDE TO MEET GOAL THREE

GOAL THREE

Help guide our members in preserving their own history and give guidance that allows them to best decide which memory institution may be best suited to their preservation needs

▶ CONTINUE TO BUILD THE DATABASE

▶ POTENTIAL TO OFFER DIGITAL ACCESS TO KEY MATERIALS SUCH AS PUBLICATIONS

At their most useful, records can be activated ... in the present, so that community members can learn activist tactics and strategies and get inspiration to keep going. “We have been here before, we have survived this before, we have resisted before,” ... records assert, “here’s how.”
