Partner with ASID at the 2026 Zoonoses Conference InterContinental Brisbane | 3 & 4 July 2026

On behalf of the Australasian Society for Infectious Diseases (ASID), we are delighted to invite you to support and participate in the 2026 ASID Zoonoses Conference. This leading meeting is held every two years and provides an excellent opportunity to focus on a One Health approach to the rising challenge of zoonotic diseases.

Zoonotic diseases make up about 60% of human infectious diseases. These diseases have a significant global impact, driving millions of illnesses and deaths annually, while also costing billions in healthcare and agriculture. Preventing and controlling zoonotic diseases relies on a “One Health” approach—integrating human, animal, and environmental health through measures like animal vaccination, food safety, vector control, surveillance, and global cooperation.

This specialty event brings together more than 200 delegates including clinical microbiologist and infectious disease physicians, ecologists, veterinarians and veterinary nurses, public health and epidemiology specialists, regulatory affairs, immunisation professionals, agriculture and environmental professionals, disease surveillance specialists, animal health scientists and researchers.

ASID and our special interest group, ZOOSIG, play a vital role in raising the profile of zoonotic disease research and control and offers an opportunity for or valued partners to collaborate across disciplines and strengthen the education in this field together.

Why Sponsor or Exhibit?

Your partnership helps us deliver a dynamic and engaging program while fostering professional development and collaboration within this vital field. By partnering with ASID, you play an important role in shaping the future of infectious diseases.

We look forward to welcoming you to Brisbane in 2026 and collaborating at what promises to be a memorable and valuable event for all involved.
