

Dr Andrew MacDonald

Mieza Executive Education

Andrew is a management consultant and executive education specialist with over 30 years Board and C-level experience. He specializes in developing customized executive education and consulting programs in banking and finance, telecommunications, IT, professional services and government.

He has recently been appointed as a Visiting Professor at Columbia Business School where he teaches on the Global Banking Program as well at The University of Adelaide and Eruditus Executive Education in Dubai where he teaches customized executive education programs in customer experience, organisational innovation, design thinking banking and finance, impact investing, digital transformation and digital leadership.

He is the Managing Director of Mieza Consulting - a consultancy that specialises in transforming C-level leaders and their teams around the customer experience for clients across the globe.

He has over 25 years of experience delivering consulting and executive education programs for clients in China, India, Hong Kong, Korea, Japan, Singapore, Malaysia, Indonesia, Dubai, Saudi Arabia, Bahrain, South Africa, UK, France, Italy, Spain, Switzerland, The Netherlands, USA, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Ukraine and Russia. Former Head of Sales Development in Australia for the National Australia Bank

He is a former Director of Business Development at Ernst & Young in Australia and Japan, responsible for portfolio sales including corporate finance, taxation, audit, consulting and entrepreneurial services.