Dr. Selina Namchee Lo,
Executive Director, Australian Global Health Alliance.

Dr. Lo has nearly 30 years experience in global and international health with qualifications in medicine, tropical medicine, and a Masters in Public and International Law.

Selina has worked in Afghanistan, Myanmar, China, Thailand, and Bangladesh with refugee, stateless, ethnic minority, and IDU and sex worker communities. She was a Medical Director for Essential Medicines for Médecins sans Frontières based in Geneva. She has worked for Save the Children UK and was Clinical Advisor for the Clinton Foundation national HIV AIDS treatment partnership in China CDC, and CEO for Doctors for the Environment Australia.

Selina sits on the steering committee of SESH global and the International Advisory Board of the Korea Foundation for International Healthcare (KOFIH). She is also Consulting Editor (Global and Planetary Health Commissions) for The Lancet medical journal.

Selina came to the Alliance from the Monash Sustainable Development Institute (MSDI). She retains an active interest in the arts and local community – supporting Correspondences and by writing the occasional art review.
