

Building Inclusion: Australia's Disability Strategy

A podcast by Powerd Media

Powerd Media is launching a new podcast and video series, Building Inclusion: Australia's Disability Strategy, shining a spotlight on the voices and stories that matter most to the disability community.

Travelling across the country, the series captures lived experience, leadership and insight from people with disability as they reflect on what Australia's Disability Strategy means to them, and how it can continue to shape a more inclusive future.

Hosted by writer, lawyer and disability advocate Sam Drummond, the series explores each outcome area of the Strategy, including Employment and Financial Security, Inclusive Homes and Communities, Safety, Rights and Justice, Personal and Community Support, and Community Attitudes.

Building Inclusion: Australia's Disability Strategy launches Wednesday, March 11, 2026 with new episodes released fortnightly. Available wherever you get your podcasts.

Powerd Media is a national award-winning, disability-led media organisation committed to changing the narrative around disability. Through storytelling, advocacy and creative collaboration, Powerd Media amplifies lived experience, challenges stereotypes, and creates platforms where disabled voices lead the conversation across media.

For more information: powerd.media