

How to teach words in less than 10 minutes

Teaching vocabulary is vital in every year level but can be time consuming and limiting when you consider the number of exposures an individual needs to transfer a new word into their long-term memory. Let me show you some different ways you can teach and engage with unfamiliar vocabulary and in doing so see how many words I can teach you in 10 minutes as I perambulate through some of my most predilect lexicon disquisitions and explications.