

From road safety to healthy streets

Tuesday 13 November, 4:20pm – 4:40pm

“What if our language does not simply mirror or picture the world but profoundly shapes our view of it in the first place?” Fischer & Forester, 1993

What if the way we’ve traditionally talked about road safety does not set us up for success in our towns and cities? This presentation will take a look at the opportunities ahead as we start to shape up our new view of road safety in New Zealand and how the government’s ambitions for improved safety and access could come together to provide great outcomes for our towns and cities.

Claire Pascoe, NZ Transport Agency

Claire Pascoe is the Lead Advisor Urban Mobility at the New Zealand Transport Agency. In her current role, she provides technical expertise and leadership in relation to rebalancing the transport system, providing people with genuine options for getting around our towns and cities and making them healthier places to be. She was previously involved in developing and delivering the Urban Cycleways Programme and managing the national cycling culture change team.
