This tour will be led by Gerald Blunt who has worked in the Wellington urban design scene for that last 25 years.

The tour will explore Wellington's central city public realm and contemplate the fun, opportunities and issues of place, and how we move through these places.

Which should take primacy? What is the impact of different movements; pedestrians, cycles and vehicles on place?

The route will be dependent on weather, but will cover off parts of the waterfront and central city streets and lanes.
