

JON
LITTLE

Thursday 17 September,
8:30am – 9:15am

Jon is an award-winning transport design and engagement consultant. He specialises in cycling and walking, community involvement in street design, kerbside management, shared and combined mobility.

He is best known for his work with Waltham Forest on the delivery of the multi-award winning Mini-Holland programme but works throughout the country with local authorities on similar schemes, including Liveable Neighbourhoods in London and the Bee Network in greater Manchester.

Jon helped develop the borough-wide design concept and £27 million bid, the approach to engagement, design guide, cycling vision, behaviour change initiatives and the monitoring framework.

Previously Jon was Head of Sustainable Transport and Parking at a large consultancy, working on high-profile active travel projects including the Santander Cycle Hire Scheme and the Local Area Traffic Management Plans for the London 2012 Olympic Games.

Currently he is working with towns cities throughout the UK on the development and delivery of a broad spectrum of active travel projects including cycle routes, liveable and low traffic neighbourhoods, active travel and low emission mobility plans for urban environments.

Low traffic neighbourhoods in London (from Lambeth to Waltham Forest and back)

Jon Little, founder of Bespoke will talk about his experiences working with Local Authorities in London engaging communities in redesigning streets and the way they function for people who live, work and study there. His talk will take a journey from resident led street design in Lambeth to Waltham Forest's Mini-Holland programme and back to Lambeth, via the Liveable Neighbourhood programme, along with the recent installation of temporary Low Traffic Neighbourhoods in Brixton.
