

Securing justice for the planet

OPPORTUNITIES FOR,
AND BARRIERS TO,
COURSE CORRECTION

Speaker Bios

Speaker/s Name	Biography/ies (as provided by speaker/s)
Dr Issa Adedokun	Dr. Issa Akanji ADEDOKUN is a Lecturer in the Department of Private and Property Law, Faculty of Law, University of Lagos. At the 54th convocation ceremony of University of Lagos State, he won the award of excellence for having the overall best Ph.D. Thesis in Humanities. During his Master's degree programme, he won a Postgraduate award and was seconded to the Commercial and Industrial Law Department as a Graduate/Teaching Assistant between June 2013. He has participated in numerous international conferences both as a presenter and moot judge across Canada, United States of America, Egypt, the United Kingdom, Belgium and Netherland.
Shushmita Ahmed	Shushmita Ahmed is a PhD candidate and Teaching Fellow at the University of Technology Sydney, Australia, researching deep-seabed mining governance. She is a Senior Civil Judge in the Bangladesh Judicial Service, currently on education leave. Shushmita holds an LL.B. and LL.M. from the University of Chittagong, Bangladesh, and a Master's in Environmental Law from the University of Melbourne, Australia. She has completed specialised training in ocean governance and the law of the sea in South Korea, Germany, Singapore, and Italy. Her research interests include Public International Law, Law of the Sea, Climate Change, Environmental Justice, and Dispute Resolution.
Professor M Shawkat Alam	Professor M Shawkat Alam is a Professor of International and Environmental Law at Macquarie Law School. He holds an LLB with Honours from Rajshahi University, an LLM from Dhaka University, and a PhD from Macquarie University. Professor Alam's teaching and research span the fields of international law, international environmental law, trade and environment law, human rights, and sustainable development. His work critically examines the legal, institutional, and policy frameworks shaping sustainable development, with a particular focus on the opportunities and challenges faced by developing countries.
Pushkar Anand	PhD Candidate Sessional Academic, Macquarie Law School, Macquarie University, Sydney
Assistant Professor Areena Parveen Ansari	Areena Parveen Ansari has been pursuing her PhD in International Environmental Law from the University of Ottawa, Canada, since 2023. She pursued her LL.M. in International Environmental Law and her B.B.A. LL.B. (Specialization in Corporate Laws)

	from India. Since 2018, she has been working as an Assistant Professor. Additionally, she has served as an Assistant Director at the Centre for Research in Environmental Law (CREL) and as the Faculty Coordinator for the Legal Aid Cell. Additionally, she has been serving as a Research Assistant at the University of Ottawa since December 2023, on Human Rights and Business Laws Projects.
Matthew Baird and Rocky Guzman	Roger Joseph (Rocky) Guzman is the Deputy Director of the Asian Research Institute for Environmental Law, and a Philippine-licensed attorney and environmental policy specialist. He has an in-depth professional experience on policy reform, particularly on waste management and circular economy, ocean governance and the blue economy, and the nexus of environment and human rights. Deeply involved as advisor on issues covering plastic pollution, waste trade and crime, and fisheries management at international, regional and national levels.
Ethan Beringen	Ethan Beringen is a Yong Pung How Research Fellow at the Centre for Commercial Law in Asia (CCLA) at Singapore Management University. He is also a part of the Singapore Sustainable Futures Initiative team within the CCLA. Ethan completed his PhD within the Centre for Environmental Law at Macquarie University in Sydney, Australia. He has also been a guest PhD Researcher at the Norwegian Centre for the Law of the Sea at UiT the Arctic University of Norway. Ethan's research is focused on international environmental law and law of the sea. Specifically, he is interested in the protection of marine biodiversity and the prevention of marine plastic pollution. He has published research on topics such as the negotiations for a new treaty instrument for conserving marine biodiversity beyond national jurisdiction, international fisheries law, Australia's ocean governance, regime interaction and middle power theory.
Assistant Professor Thitat Chavisschinda	"Asst. Prof. Dr. Thitat Chavisschinda is a law professor and legal-policy researcher at the Graduate School of Law, National Institute of Development Administration, Bangkok, Thailand, and Deputy Director of the NIDA Research Bureau. His work connects legal research with regulatory practice, advising public and private organizations on international business compliance and emerging governance frameworks. His research focuses on international and comparative law, business law, human rights, and digital governance, with recent work examining ASEAN trade integration, digital regulation, and ESG due-diligence standards in the critical-minerals economy."
Moumita Das Gupta and Hajif Khan	Moumita Das Gupta is an Advocate affiliated with the Supreme Court of Bangladesh and working with the Centre for Climate Justice – Bangladesh (CCJ-B) as a Senior Research Fellow. She is providing voluntary services to both Sabin Center for Climate Change Law of Columbia University and the Asian Front of the World Youth for Climate Justice (WY4CJ). With the Sabin Center for Climate Change Law, she is serving as the National Rapporteur of Bangladesh and Regional Leader for Asia. With WY4CJ she is serving as the National Coordinator of the Bangladesh Front. M. Hafijul Islam Khan (Hafij Khan) is an Advocate affiliated with the Supreme Court of Bangladesh. He is serving Bangladesh delegation as a climate change negotiator for the last 15 years. Also, he is acting as the co-coordinator for the loss and damage team of the Least Developing Countries (LDCs) group at UNFCCC. He is a member of the Executive Committee (ExCom) of Warsaw International Mechanism (WIM) for Loss and Damage at UNFCCC. Presently, he is serving as one of the co-chairs of the ExCom of the WIM. He is the Director of Centre for Climate Justice – Bangladesh (CCJ-B).
Dr Catherine Gascoigne	Dr Catherine Gascoigne is a Macquarie Research Fellow at Macquarie University with research interests in international economic law and its synergies with international environmental and energy law. She is the author of the monograph, Causation in the Law of the World Trade Organization: An Econometric Approach (Cambridge University Press, 2023), which was awarded an Honourable Mention for the Australian and New Zealand Society of International Law Book Prize 2024. Catherine holds a Bachelor of Arts (Hons) and Bachelor of Laws (Hons) (Sydney), a Bachelor of Civil Law (Distinction) (Oxford) and a Doctor of Philosophy in Law (Cambridge).

Professor Beth Goldblatt	Beth Goldblatt is a Professor in the Faculty of Law at the University of Technology Sydney and a Visiting Professor in the School of Law at the University of the Witwatersrand, South Africa. She researches and teaches in the areas of feminist legal theory, equality and discrimination law, comparative constitutional law, and human rights with a focus on economic and social rights, and the right to social security in particular. A major focus of her research is on equality-focused responses to climate change. Beth is co-director of the Climate Change Working group within the Berkeley Center for Comparative Equality and Anti-Discrimination Law.
Tonmoy Halder	Tonmoy Halder is a final-year undergraduate law student at Khulna University, Bangladesh, and currently serves as Section Editor for the Law and Society Students' Journal (https://lssjbd.org/index.php/lssj/index). His research focuses on human rights, international law, environmental law, constitutional law, and cultural heritage protection, with emphasis on post-conflict legal reform and the rights of war-affected communities. He presented his paper, “Indigenous Exclusion in Constitutional Reform: Revisiting Bangladesh’s Constitution Reform Commission,” at the North South University Law Symposium (October 2025) and has submitted abstracts for the International Journal of Cultural Property and Islamic International Law and Global Affairs.
Professor Susan Harris Rimmer	Professor at Griffith University
Associate Professor Andrew Hemming	Andrew Hemming is an Associate Professor in Law at the University of Southern Queensland and author of: WILL AUSTRALIA REQUIRE NUCLEAR ENERGY TO ACHIEVE CARBON ZERO EMISSIONS BY 2050? 2025 CHICAGO-KENT JOURNAL OF ENVIRONMENTAL & ENERGY LAW Vol. 14:2 https://studentorgs.kentlaw.iit.edu/ckjeel/wp-content/uploads/sites/23/2025/05/v14i2-2024-2025-1-Hemming.pdf
Dr Anna-Karina Hermkens	Anna-Karina Hermkens is a senior lecturer and researcher in Cultural Anthropology at Macquarie University, Sydney. Her PhD (2005) “Engendering Objects: The Dynamics of Barkcloth and Identity among the Maisin in Papua New Guinea” (published with Sidestone in 2013), explored the interplay between gender, identity and material culture, in particular tapa, from a historical and anthropological perspective. Since 2005, her research in Solomon Islands and Papua New Guinea has been focused on the entanglements between gender, violence & conflict, resource extraction and climate change.
Rob Houston and Sarah Mack	Executive Director The Global Pro Bono Bar Association
Dr Angwe Rachel Lekunze	Dr Angwe Rachel Lekunze is a Research Fellow at the Center for Environmental Justice in Africa, University of Pretoria, South Africa with expertise in Environmental, Energy, and Constitutional Law. She holds an LLD from North-West University, where her research focused on renewable energy access within the African Union. Dr Lekunze has lectured at Jeppe College, Southern Business School, and CPUT, and has published extensively on energy governance, climate change, and sustainability law. Fluent in English and French, she combines academic excellence with practical experience in higher education, research, management and policy development across South Africa and Africa as a whole.

Dr Kuangran Li	Dr. Kuangran Li is an Assistant Researcher at the Shanghai Academy of Social Sciences. His work examines international economic law and global governance, with emphasis on sovereign borrowing and lending and legal asymmetries between developed and developing economies. He received a Ph.D. in Law from Shanghai Jiao Tong University (dissertation on sovereign lending and international economic law), an LL.B. from East China University of Political Science and Law, and LL.M. degrees from McGill University and Boston University. His recent research explores how anti-subsidy regimes and digital currencies reshape policy space in the Global South and legal adaptation to geopolitical shifts.
Associate Professor Jolene Lim	Jolene Lim is Associate Professor of Law at the National University of Singapore (NUS) and Director of the Asia-Pacific Centre of Environmental Law. Her research focuses on climate change litigation and transnational climate change law. Her recent publications include Governing Climate Change: Global Cities and Transnational Lawmaking (Cambridge University Press 2018), Climate Change Litigation in the Asia Pacific (Cambridge University Press 2020) and Litigating Climate Change in the Global South (Oxford University Press 2024) which won the 2025 European Society of International Law Collaborative Book Prize and the 2025 Australia and New Zealand Society of International Law Book Prize. Jolene is a member of the Academic Circle supporting the UN Special Rapporteur on the right to development (2024-2026) and Vice-Chair of the International Chamber of Commerce Global Environment and Energy Commission. She is on the editorial boards of the Journal of Environmental Law and Transnational Environmental Law . Jolene is also actively involved in global climate justice philanthropic initiatives.
Justin Lim	Justin Lim is a Sheridan Fellow at the National University of Singapore where he researches and teaches environmental law and property law. Justin completed his Bachelor of Civil Law in 2024. He graduated with a BA of Jurisprudence (LLB) with First Class Honours from the University of Oxford in 2022, where he was also awarded the Peter Carter Prize for his top performance in Wadham College. Outside of his research work, he is the Deputy Front Convenor of the World's Youth for Climate Justice's Asian Front.
Yohan Liyanage	Yohan Liyanage has served 22 years in the legal profession after completing his legal studies at the Sri Lanka Law College with First Class Honours in 2002. Current student of LL.M in International Environmental and Climate Change Law at Faculty of Law, University of Colombo, Sri Lanka.
Professor Rosemary Lyster	Rosemary Lyster is the Professor of Climate and Environmental Law at the University of Sydney Law School, a member of the Climate Disaster and Adaptation Research Theme at the Sydney Environment Institute, and a Fellow of the Australian Academy of Law. Rosemary enjoys an international reputation as a leading academic in the area of Climate Justice and Disaster Law. She has published widely in this area. In 2025 she was appointed to an international Advisory Group on the draft Treaty on the Protection of People in the Event of Disasters. In 2024, she was appointed to the UN Special Rapporteur on the Right to Development's Academic Circle.
Ankit Malhotra	Malhotra is an Associate in the Chambers of Mr Gopal Subramaniam SA, Former Solicitor General of India, Member, 3 Verulam Buildings, London.
Dr Francesca Marzatico	Dr Marzatico is a lecturer at the School of Surveying and a researcher at the interface with more than 20 years of working experience in post-conflict countries. She researches the relationship between land, natural resources and traditional governance and how this impacts on indigenous communities' participation in decision-making on land and natural resources at local and global levels. She is co-director of the Ōtākou Whakaiu Waka Research Theme Research at the Interface of Diverse Knowledge Systems and a member of the Otago Centre for Law and Society Steering Committee.

Dr Francesca Marzatico, Associate Professor Katharina Ruckstuhl, Professor Christina Hulbe and Ms Rachel Ruckstuhl-Mann	N/A
Mohamed Sobhy Hassan Ali Mohamed	Mohamed Sobhy Hassan Ali Mohamed is an Assistant State Council Commissioner (Egyptian State Council) and Assistant Lecturer of Public International Law at Zagazig University. He holds an LL.M. in Public International Law (Ain Shams University, 2023) and is currently pursuing a Ph.D. in International Law. His research focuses on international adjudication, digital rights, and environmental governance. Mohamed has published peer-reviewed articles on constitutional protection of digital rights, universal jurisdiction, and ICJ oversight of the veto. He has also presented at international conferences in France and the Arab region, and is a member of the Egyptian Society of International Law.
Gillian Moon	Gillian Moon is a Senior Visiting Fellow at Law & Justice UNSW, where she has held both teaching and research academic positions since 2003. She is the founder and Research Lead at the Australian Climate Accountability Project of the Australian Human Rights Institute (UNSW). She has taught, researched and published widely in human rights law, particularly its intersections with international economic law, international climate law and development theory. She has previously practiced in public interest law, has experience in policy formulation and law reform, and was an Advisor to Commonwealth Ministers for Justice and Consumer Affairs in Canberra.
Dr Wesley Morgan	Dr Wesley Morgan is a research associate with the Institute for Climate Risk & Response at UNSW. He has written widely on climate change and international relations, with a focus on Australia and the Pacific islands. His research considers the ways countries work together at the UN to tackle climate change and integrate climate change into their foreign policy and national security strategies. Wesley is also a research associate with the Australian Climate Accountability Project at the Australian Human Rights Institute at UNSW. He is also a fellow at the Climate Council of Australia.
Dr Justine Muller	Dr Justine Muller is a Post-doctoral Fellow at the Asia-Pacific Centre for Environmental Law (APCEL) of the National University of Singapore, with expertise in the nexus between trade and the environment. She has a PhD (2024) from the European University Institute, where she wrote her thesis on the integration of biodiversity in the bilateral free trade agreements signed by the European Union. Justine also has experience in international negotiations, serving as an assistant to the European Union's delegation to the Intergovernmental Science-Policy Platform on Biodiversity and Ecosystem Services (IPBES).
Maria Nawaz	Maria Nawaz is the Project Lead at the Australian Climate Accountability Project of the Australian Human Rights Institute at UNSW. Her research focuses on climate justice and barriers to public interest litigation. Maria was previously the General Counsel at Grata Fund where she worked on over 60 public interest cases in human rights, climate justice and democracy. Maria was a Lecturer at UNSW Law, and has worked at Kingsford Legal Centre, Legal Aid NSW and the Commonwealth Attorney-General's Department. Maria was awarded 2025 In House Lawyer of the Year by the Women's Lawyers Association of NSW.

Ms Van Quynh Ngo (Vân Quỳnh Ngô)	Van Quynh Ngo holds an MSc in International Politics from KU Leuven and currently works as an independent researcher focusing on the intersection of environmental justice, governance, and policy transitions in the Global South. Her research examines how political structures and state-led governance shape equitable energy transitions and the interpretation of justice in climate and environmental policies. Her recent work analyzes the representation of energy justice in Vietnam's renewable energy policy under authoritarian environmentalism. She is particularly interested in comparative research linking environmental justice theory with policy implementation in emerging economies.
Professor Patricia Grazziotin Noschang and Dr Erika Pires Ramos	Professor, University of Passo Fundo, Brazil
Dr Frances Chisomaga Nwadike	My name is Frances Nwadike, and I am a Lecturer in Law at the University of Southampton. Prior to joining Southampton Law School, I worked as a Teaching Fellow at Durham University and an Associate Lecturer at Newcastle University, both in the United Kingdom. I hold a PhD in International Trade Law and Climate Change and an LLM in International Trade and Commercial Law from Newcastle and Durham Universities, respectively. I have a growing publication list in trade law and international dispute settlement, and I have published peer-reviewed papers in the Journal of World Trade and the Global Trade and Customs Journal.
Dr Odinakachukwu Emmanuel Okeke (Also on behalf of Ms Hauwa C Abiri, Mrs Ifeoma Blessing Okoye, Ms Chidinma Blessing Nwakoby, and Mrs Chinelo A Ekechi-Agwu)	Dr. Odinakachukwu E. Okeke is a Lecturer, Department of International Law and Jurisprudence, Faculty of Law, Nnamdi Azikiwe University, Awka, Nigeria. He holds an LLM and PhD in Human Rights and Constitutional Law. His research explores human rights, constitutionalism, decolonization, and environmental governance in Africa. He has published widely on self-determination and post-colonial statehood and is currently examining the intersection of environmental justice, indigenous knowledge, and socio-economic rights in African legal systems. His institutional email address is oe.okeke@unizik.edu.ng
Assistant Professor Mohammad Rashed Hasan Polas (also on behalf of Professor Bulbul Ahamed, Mr Ahmed Imran Kabir, and Dr Md Muhibbullah)	N/A
Professor Ravindra Pratap	Prof. Ravindra Pratap, Dean, Faculty of Legal Studies and Professor Incharge, Legal Affairs Division, L124, Law & Humanities Building, Academic Block 6, South Asian University (A University of SAARC Countries), Rajpur Road, Maidan Garhi, New Delhi 110 068 India.
Emily Price and Greg Phelps	Director, Pacific Mining Program, Jubilee Australia Research Centre Barrister
Nabilla Desyalika Putri	Nabilla Desyalika Putri is a lecturer at the Faculty of Law at Surabaya State University in Indonesia, where she teaches customary law, environmental law, and natural resource law. Despite just having a year of teaching experience, she has been actively publishing articles related to her field and discussed her writings at various conferences. She is also a new member of the Asian Law and Society Association (ALSA) and works as a researcher at the Center for Agrarian Resources Law and Customary Law Studies and Advocacy (Pusaka Adat) at her university. Her research profile is available on this page.

Raisa Savitri Ramadhani	Fastrack Program (Join Undergraduate and Master Program), Gadjah Mada University (Universitas Gadjah Mada), Indonesia 2009-2014 Join Undergraduate and Master Program in Urban and Regional Planning with GPA: 3.81 (undergraduate) and 3.92 (master). I was awarded an undergraduate and master scholarship from the Ministry of Higher Education, Research, and Technology of Indonesia. PhD Student, the University of Adelaide, Australia - 2025-now PhD Student at Department of Geography, Environment and Population, School of Social Science, the University of Adelaide. I am an Australia Awards awardee, a prestigious scholarship from the Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade, Australia.
Professor Benjamin Richardson and Dr Sarah Brugler	Ben serves as a Professor of Environmental Law at the University of Tasmania (UTAS). He has three decades of international experience in academic institutions across Australia, Canada, England, the Netherlands, and New Zealand. Currently, he is at the helm of an Australian Research Council (ARC) funded initiative focused on covenants and the conservation of private land. Sarah, a research fellow involved in the ARC project, is completing her PhD studies at UTAS on conservation covenants in Australia. In her previous role, she was the Legal Counsel for Trust for Nature (Victoria), the lead organisation for private land conservation in Victoria.
José Daniel Rodríguez-Orúe and Verena Kahl	Verena Kahl (Ass. iur., M.A.), University of Hamburg Verena is research assistant at the Europa-Kolleg Hamburg and academic lead of the transnational climate law clinic "Climate Law in International Context" between the University of Hamburg and the University of Chile. Her research focuses on International Environmental and Climate law, Human Rights Protection, Rights of Nature and (Eco)Feminist Theory. She defended her doctoral thesis on "The Right to a Safe Climate: Leading Human Rights Law into the Anthropocene" in October 2025. From 2015 to 2018 Verena served as junior lawyer at the Inter-American Court of Human Rights. José Daniel Rodríguez-Orúe (LL.M.), World's Youth for Climate Justice José is a public international lawyer and climate justice advocate from Costa Rica (LLM, LSE), specializing in human rights and environmental law. He provides strategic legal advice to institutions, experts, organizations, and social movements. José is Strategic Advisor at the World's Youth for Climate Justice, where he previously led a regional youth campaign in Latin-America for a strong Advisory Opinion on climate change from the International Court of Justice. He formerly served as Consulting Attorney at the Inter-American Court of Human Rights and Legal Advisor to the UN Special Rapporteur on the Human Right to a Healthy Environment. Currently, José works as Kenneth Roth Practitioner in Residence at Human Rights Watch (HRW).
Dr Francesca Rosignoli	Francesca Rosignoli (PhD 2016) is an expert in environmental justice and climate-induced migration. Her current research compares Citizens' Climate Assembly initiatives established in South Tyrol (Italy) and Vorarlberg (Austria). Her latest monograph, Environmental Justice for Climate Refugees, was published by Routledge in May 2022 and analyzes the legal impasse surrounding the recognition of climate refugees through the lens of environmental justice. She is also the author of Environmental Justice (Castelvecchi, 2020). This groundbreaking work introduces the topic of environmental justice in Italy by being the first comprehensive book written in Italian on the subject.

Dr Aradhana S Talwar and Ms Surabhi Mathur	With over 7 years of experience in teaching and industry, Dr Aradhana Talwar is currently working as Assistant Professor at the Department of Public Policy, School of Social Sciences, MS Ramaiah University of Applied Sciences. Previously, she worked as faculty member at St Xavier's College, Mumbai and has also worked in the corporate world. She has completed her MA, MPhil and PhD from the School of International Studies, JNU with a focus on West Asian affairs. Her BA degree was in Political Science from St Xavier's College, Mumbai. Her areas of interest include West Asia, South Asia and Indian Foreign Policy. She has published several articles in various embassy publications and chapters in edited books published by international publishers. She has also participated in various international conferences and seminars. Her recent paper presentation was on India Japan Relations at India Japan Conference, organized by and held at Keio University, Japan, in collaboration with Indian Institute of Science (IISc). Apart from her publications dealing with various issues of International Relations, she is currently working on Indian Council of Social Science and Research (ICSSR) and Indian Council of Medical Research (ICMR) projects (both Government of India bodies) dealing with different aspects of society and governance. The ICMR project is on positive aging interventions with a project grant worth Rs 2.8 crores, the highest in the University. She is also working on one ICSSR project on Intimate Partner Violence (grant amount Rs 19 lakhs) and a second ICSSR project on wooden toys and doll-making traditions of Karnataka (grant amount of Rs 10 lakhs). Currently, she is also a Visiting Scholar at Centre for Society and Policy, IISc (Bengaluru). Ms. Surabhi Mathur, an alumna of National Law University, Jodhpur, and Tamil Nadu National Law University, Tiruchirappalli, is an Assistant Professor of Law at the School of Law, Ramaiah University of Applied Sciences, Bengaluru. She is pursuing her PhD at Himachal Pradesh National Law University, Shimla, on "Compulsory Licensing in Pharmaceutical Products under Patent Law: A Comparative Study of India and the USA." Her teaching and research areas include Intellectual Property, Labour, Environmental, and Human Rights Law. Recipient of an Intra-Mural Research Grant (2025) for her project on menstrual equity, she promotes research-driven and socially responsive legal education.
Zhen Yu	Monash, PhD candidate