Your Role in Positive Behaviour Support

Small Changes. Big Differences.

9 June 2021 Virtual Conference

Supported through grant funding from the Australian Government

About NDS

National Disability Services (NDS) is Australia's peak body for non-government disability service organisations, representing more than 1160 non-government service providers. NDS is the only organisation that represents the full spectrum of disability service providers across Australia. Members range in size from small support groups to large multi-service organisations.

NDS provides members with a strong voice, enabling the sector to collectively initiate change, influence outcomes and deliver the funding needed to ensure the best possible quality of life for people with disability.

About Positive Behaviour Support

Positive behaviour support is a respectful and ethical approach to supporting people who may use behaviours to communicate their needs. The primary goal of this evidence-based approach is to improve a person's quality of life over the long term.

Positive behaviour support is about putting in place strategies to help build a person's skills and to create an environment that meets the person's needs. It follows formal assessments and interventions informed by research. By working in collaboration with families and teams to use new strategies, positive behaviour support reduces the risk to the person with disability and the people that support them.

Our conference is targeted to behaviour support practitioners who provide this support. It can be complex work and is a process that involves collaboration with families, providers and the person with disability.

This growing group of professionals varies significantly in experience and skill and is in high demand.

When done well, positive behaviour support can reduce human rights restrictions and create a better quality of life for people with disability.

Through our inaugural conference – Your role in positive behaviour support - we hope to make a contribution to the development of this profession. We'd love to have your support too.

Virtual Conference

Your Role in Positive Behaviour Support - Virtual Conference

Small changes. Big differences.

The virtual conference will focus on the development of positive behaviour support skills and the role we all have in improving the quality of life for people with disability.

Date: 9 June 2021

Expected Attendance: More than 900 delegates nationally

Who: This inaugural NDS event follows on from online workshops attracting over 800 behaviour support practitioners from across Australia.

Behaviour support practitioners may be sole providers, employees of large organisations or part of a small to medium service.

NDS also welcomes and encourages direct support workers and their team leaders, allied health providers, CEO's and quality team managers, people with disability, and family members and carers who may have been involved in positive behaviour support and restrictive practices to attend.

Why Support and Exhibit

- Raise your profile and presence in the disability sector
- Increase your ability to respond to the emerging market including the NDIS
- Communicate your commitment and support to the disability services sector
- Develop personal and direct relationships with new and existing clients
- Showcase your brand, products and services
- Add value and substance to your brand
- Build a quality database
- Showcase your connection with NDS, the peak body for disability service providers
