Echoes of Excellence

Support with a prize

The ASA aims to create an Interesting Cases online event - Echoes of Excellence to provide a platform for local presenters and emerging professionals to showcase their work. We will hold separate events for both the cardiac and general streams. By collaborating with local branches, the winners of previous and future Interesting Case Nights will be given the opportunity to prerecord their winning presentations to enter the online event.

We will also give members the chance to submit interesting cases encountered in their clinical environment. This will allow local presenters to reach a wider, more diverse professional audience, offering them greater visibility and recognition.

This event not only amplifies the impact of sonographer's contributions but also fosters a collaborative environment for sharing knowledge within the field.

We encourage Employers to support this initiative by providing prizes. In thanks for your support, you will be provided with extensive promotion, branding and recognition opportunities alongside your supported category/winning presentation. Further, you will receive your prize winner's details; which is a great opportunity to meet the sonography emerging leaders of today.
