Important information

This is general information only, so it doesn't take into account your objectives, financial situation or needs. ANZ is not giving you advice or recommendations (including tax or accounting advice), and there may be other ways to manage finances, planning and decisions for your business.

Read the ANZ Financial Services Guide and, if applicable, the product terms and conditions available online at anz.com. Carefully consider what's right for you, and seek appropriate independent advice (which may include property, legal, financial, taxation and accounting advice) before making any decisions.

Tools, templates, checklists, and calculators referred to in this brochure, are only some of many ways to analyse a business or industry, or to assist your planning and business decision making. You should seek the assistance of your accountant, business or other advisor when either planning for or analysing your business.

Terms and conditions, fees and charges, and credit approval and eligibility criteria apply to ANZ products.
