1615-1715	Plenary 2: An A-Z of Advocacy
	In this session, the speaker will seek to draw together some 'dos and don'ts' about advocacy, gleaned from his own experience as an advocate and judge, as well as points borrowed from the experience of others. It is a well-worn idea that advocacy is the art

of persuasion. But, as has been said before, successful advocacy is rarely the result of a single overriding or natural ability. Rather, it comes from the accumulation of positive skills and the avoidance of often small but annoying negative features. At bottom, advocacy is a performance skill that can be taught. As with any piece of advocacy, the talk will range over matters of the bigger picture to matters of the smaller details. But do not expect a straight line from macro to micro. Any structure is better than no structure, where both shapeless advocacy and shapeless talks on advocacy are not usually pleasing. The gathered points are somewhat disparate, and the speaker may not be the sharpest knife in the drawer. So the best structure which he can come up with is alphabetical order. Hence, the title: 'An A to Z of Advocacy'.
