Why NAPs matter

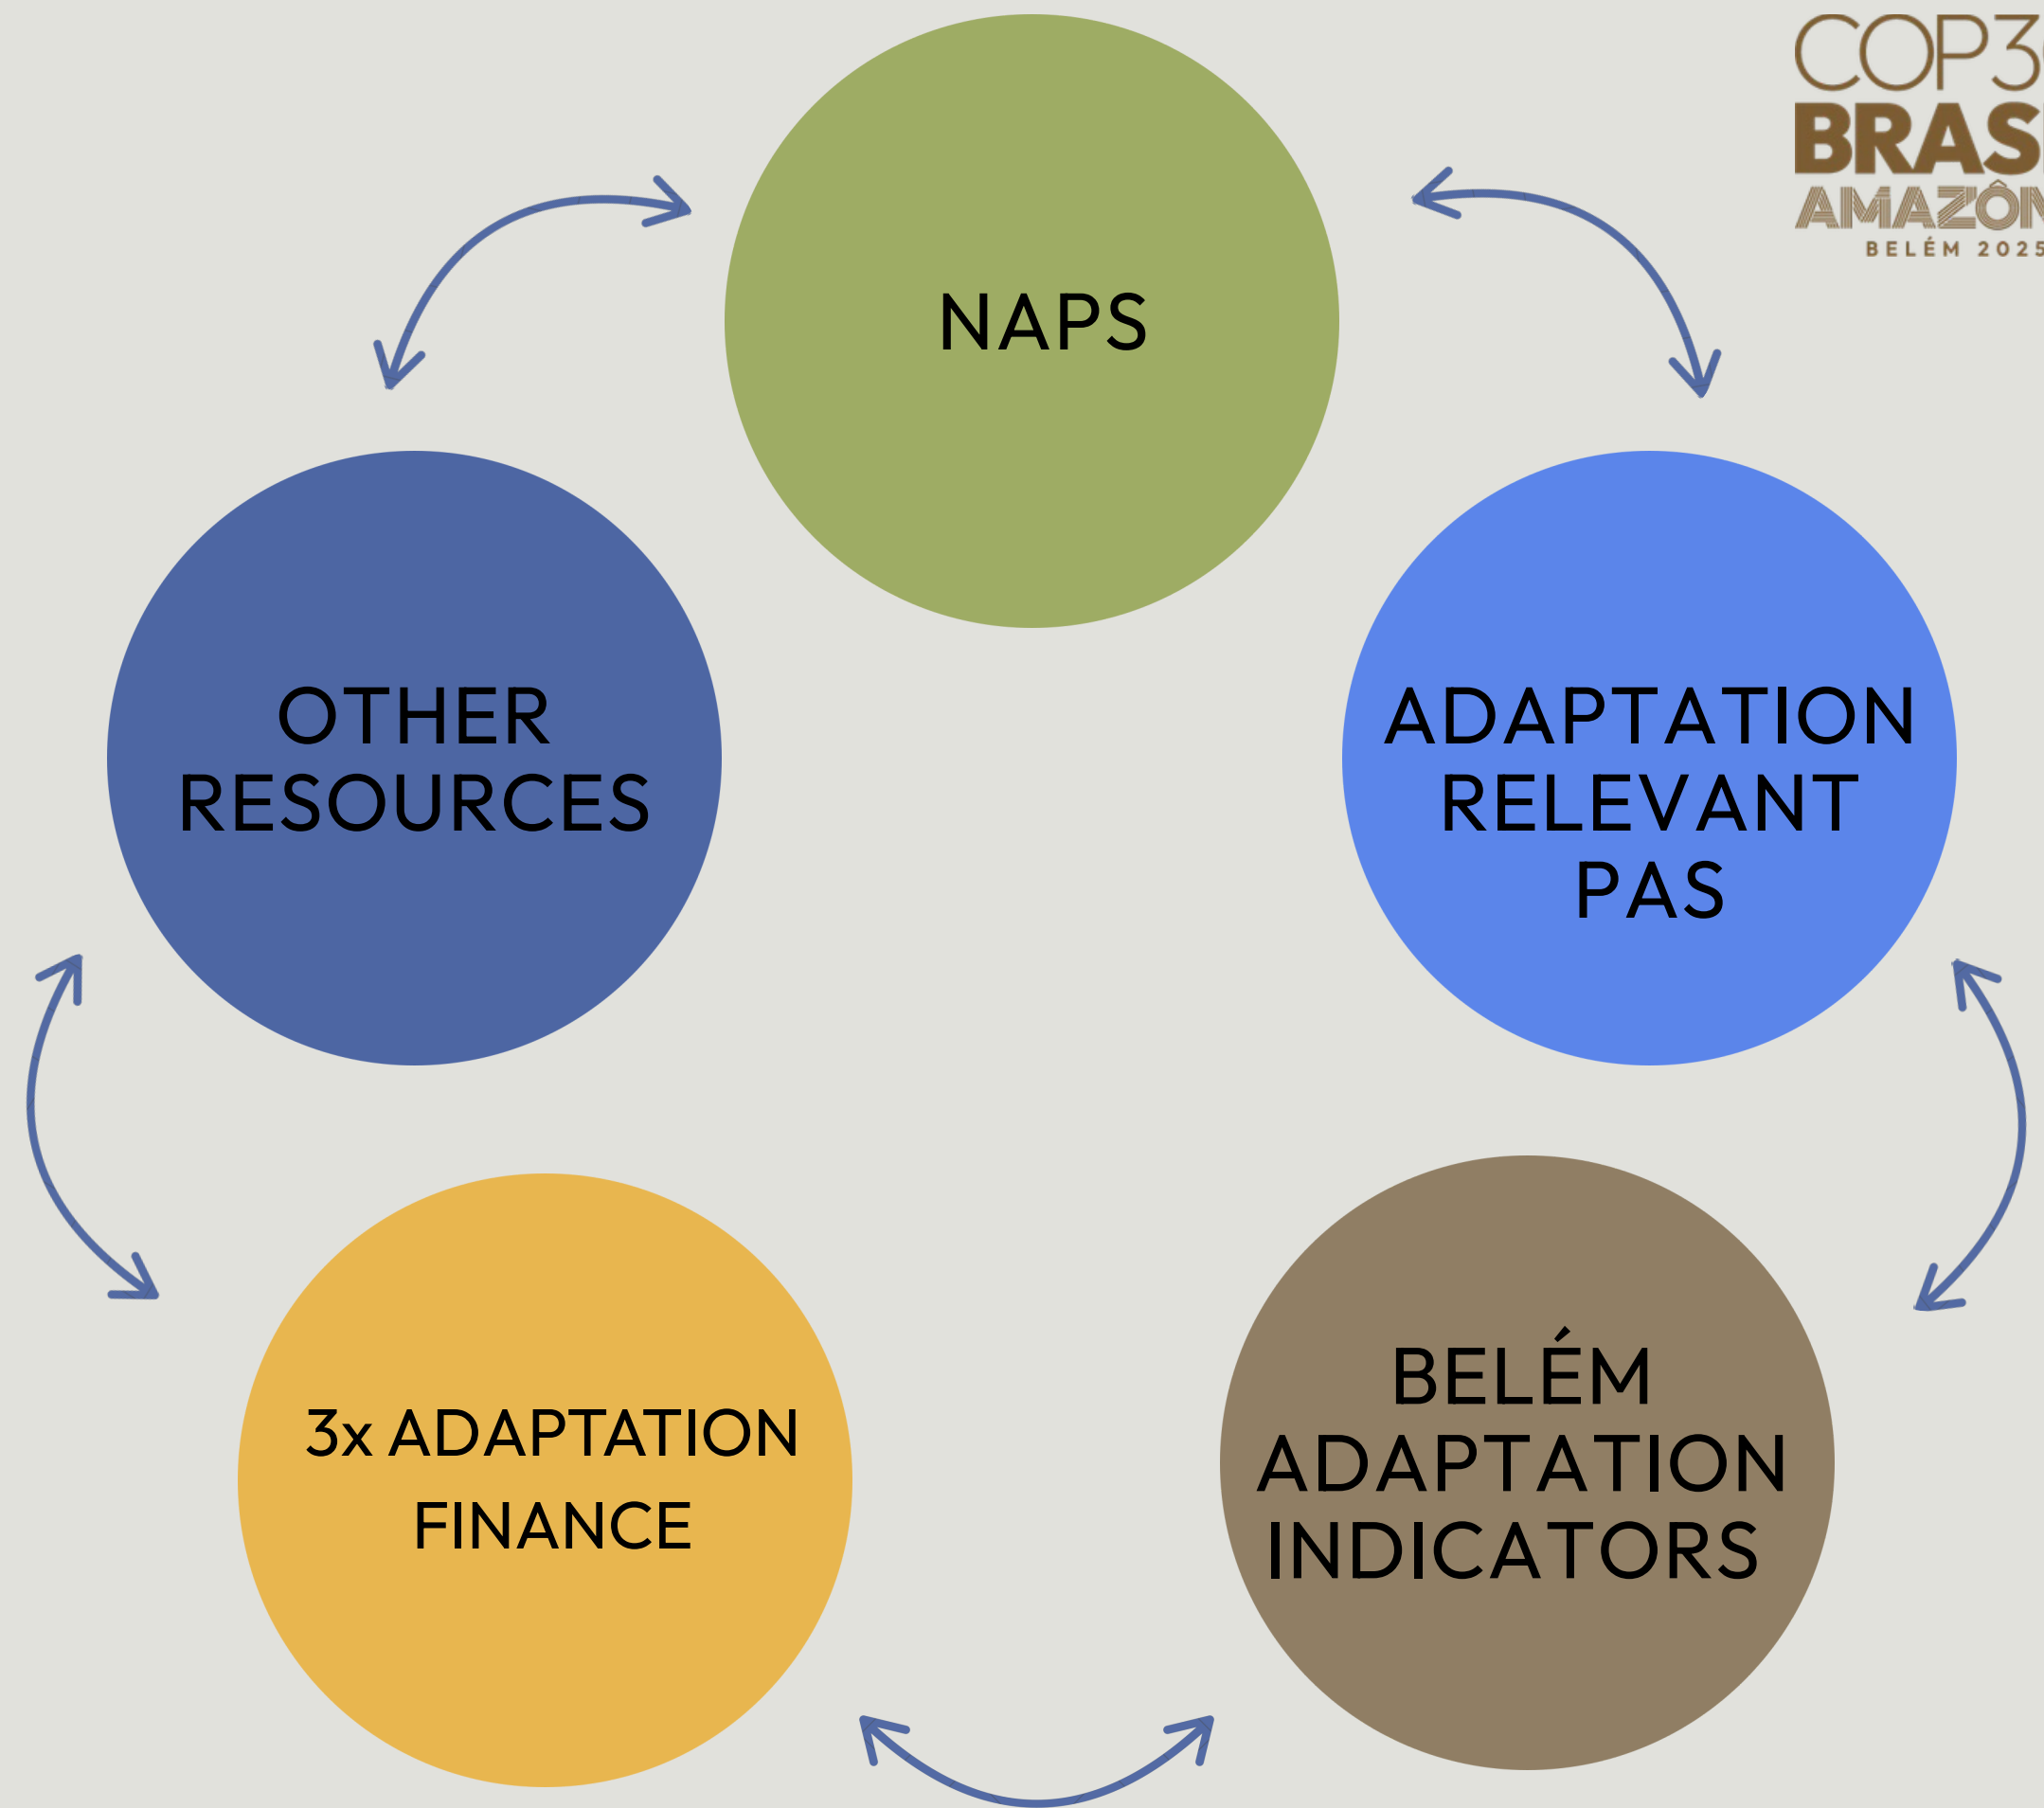

National Adaptation Plans are national blueprints for resilience

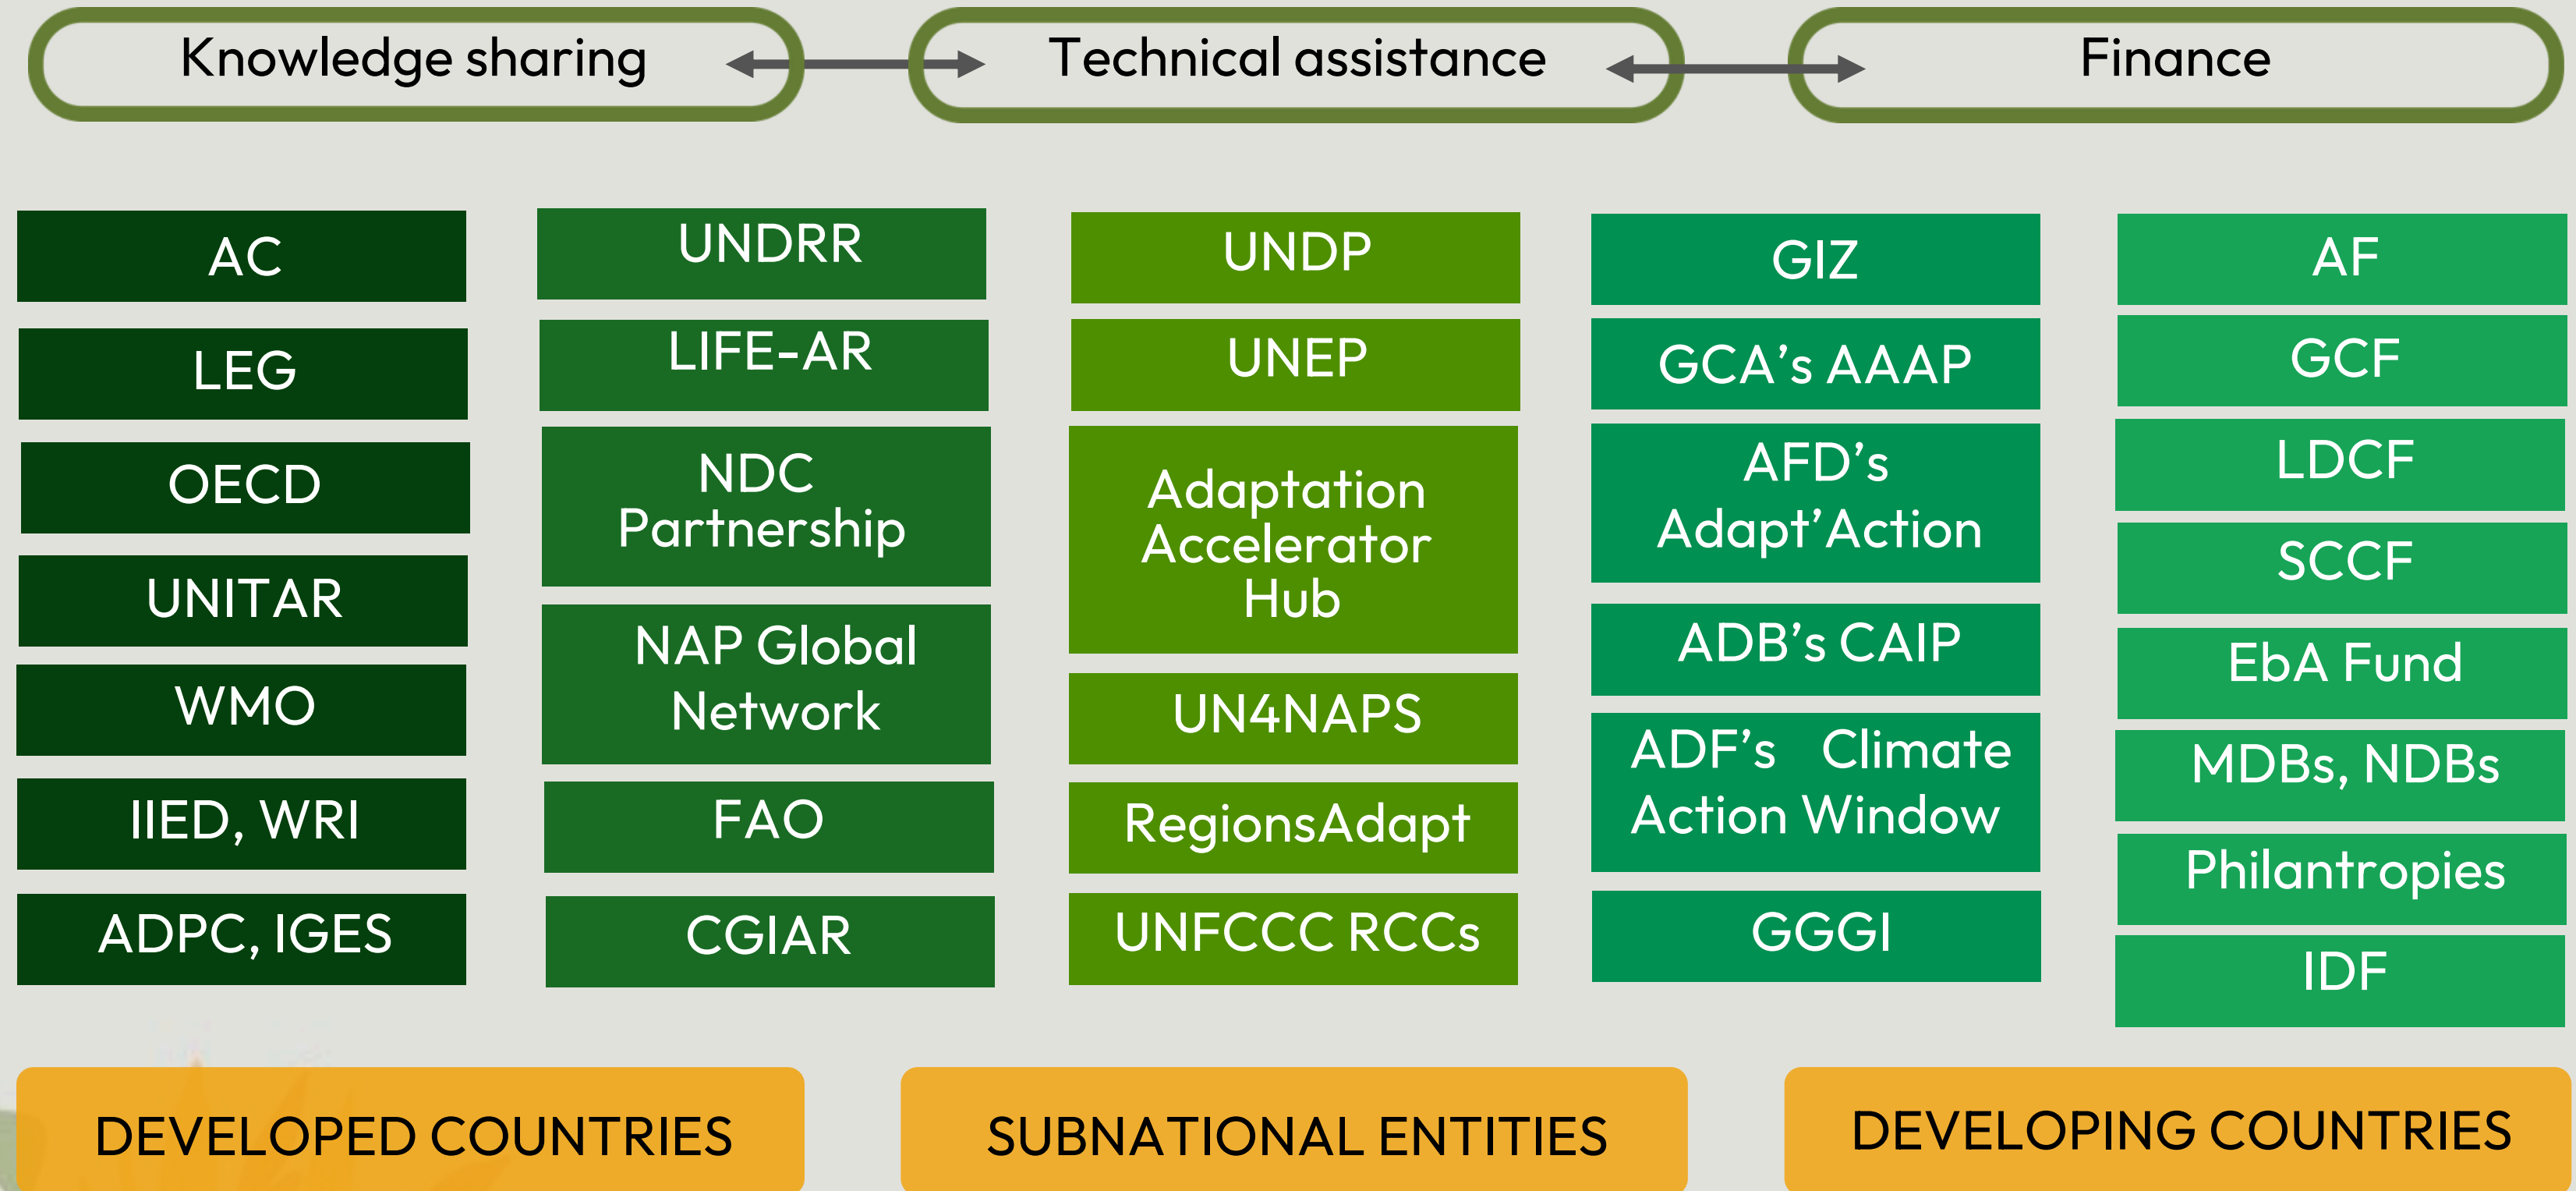

As of Aug 2026, 79 developing countries have submitted their NAP to the UNFCCC. Many more are under development.

To effectively implement the GGA architecture
we need coherence

The Complex NAP Ecosystem

NIA will focus on 3 major challenges

1. Limited political commitment and prioritization of NAPs as guiding policy

2. Lack of coordination within a complex Adaptation ecosystem

3. Inadequate finance (volume + instruments) to deliver results on resilience

The NAP Implementation Alliance is a collaborative platform designed to enhance coordination across the NAP ecosystem, with 3 main objectives

Foster global collaboration on NAP implementation

Strengthen collaborative processes and coordination mechanisms

Promote private sector engagement in adaptation and financing NAPS

Foster global cooperation on NAP implementation

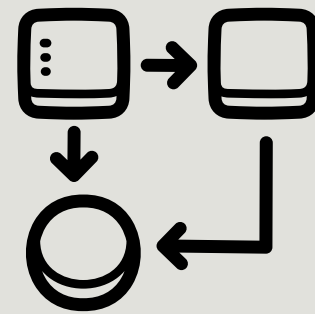

Elevate the political visibility of NAPs in international forums (NYC, Pré-COP, COP, G-20, etc)

Advocate for normalizing mainstreaming of adaptation into different development and finance policies and instruments

Strengthen collaborative processes and coordination mechanisms

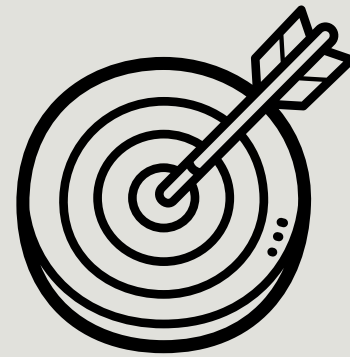

Facilitate collaboration spaces among technical assistance providers working on different stages and territorial scales to enhance NAP implementation

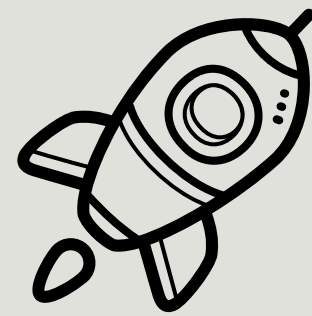

Support matchmaking efforts between country needs and financiers supply, leveraging existing capacities (i.E NAP Expo, Finance in Common)

Promote Private Sector Engagement in adaptation and financing NAPs

Foster knowledge exchange and build capacity among private financial institutions on how to align investments with NAPs

Mobilize a global coalition of private financial actors to champion and scale investments in adaptation and resilience
