SPEAKER PROFILE

Fei Yu

Advisor, Economic Research and Development Impact Department
Asian Development Bank

Fei Yu is an Advisor at the Asian Development Bank (ADB) in Manila. She supports the Chief Economist and Director General, under the guidance of the Deputy Chief Economist, in shaping ERDI's medium-term research agenda in alignment with ADB's strategic priorities. Her responsibilities include advancing the department's development impact agenda and leading strategic research initiatives. Ms. Yu brings over 26 years of professional experience, including more than 14 years at ADB. Since joining ADB, she has held a range of roles spanning investment operations, external relations, and corporate strategy and policy, including in the East Asia Department, the North American Representative Office, and the Strategy, Policy and Partnerships Department. Her experience includes preparing and managing investment projects, providing policy advice and engaging with client countries, as well as partnerships and resource mobilization, corporate strategy, and innovative financing mechanisms, with a particular focus on climate, nature, and sustainable finance. Prior to joining ADB, Ms. Yu was an Assistant Professor of Economics at Colby College, a Visiting Assistant Professor at Mount Holyoke College, and a consultant at the World Bank. She holds a Doctorate in Public Policy (Environmental Economics) from Harvard University, a Master of Public Administration (Economics) from Princeton University, and a Master of Science in Geography from the University of London.
