Richard van Liere

NESTRA

Richard van Liere is partner at nestra B.V. and has over a decade's experience in development of inland waterway transport as part of multimodal transport solutions. With completed projects in Europe, Africa, Asia and South America for international financing institutes, national and regional governments, industry associations and private organisations, throughout the years, supporting sustainable inland waterway transport development on a global scale has become an area of focus for Richard. In projects, Richard looks into topics like: multimodal transport planning in perspective of economic corridor development; freight market assessments for modal shift; integrative development of waterway infrastructure for a sustainable inland waterways transport ecosystem; River Information Services (RIS), green ports and digitization, smart shipping; modernization and greening of the fleet with the aim to contribute to zero-emission transport system. Also in the field of education and training, Richard has been active in various projects to exchange (inter)national knowledge and best practices.
