Asian Development Bank

Catherine Franco is a Senior Integrity Officer at ADB's Office of Anticorruption and Integrity (OAI). She supports the office's policy and advisory work in connection with ADB's Anticorruption Policy and its Investigation and Enforcement Framework, as well as other areas under OAI's mandate, including prevention, sanction and outreach. She represents OAI in negotiating investigation memorandums of understanding with international organizations, and the anticorruption and investigation clauses in procurement framework and grant agreements with other multilateral development banks and development partners. She is the focal person for resolving conflict of interest issues in ADB projects.

She joined ADB as an investigator where she investigated allegations of corrupt and fraudulent practices in ADB-financed activities. Prior to joining ADB, she worked in private legal practice at law firms SyCip Salazar Hernandez & Gatmaitan and Quisumbing Torres (Member Firm of Baker & McKenzie International). Catherine is a lawyer and a certified public accountant.
