

SPEAKER PROFILE

Safiah Moore

.....
Associate Principal
Arup

Safiah is an urban planner and the Planning Practice Leader for Asia Pacific at Arup, based in Indonesia. With expertise in city systems thinking, participatory planning, and sustainability and resilience, Safiah collaborates with clients and communities to design urban environments that best meet the needs of people and place. Her approach focuses on understanding how cities function and for whom they are designed, applying innovative frameworks from multiple disciplines to address complex urban challenges. Safiah has managed large-scale masterplanning projects for the Government of Indonesia, developed integrated land use and transport strategies, and led urban renewal initiatives in both Indonesia and Australia with the Asian Development Bank and The World Bank. Her portfolio includes managing Arup's master planning and continued involvement with the Indonesia New Capital City, Nusantara, climate resilience strategies for infrastructure in Indonesia, and vision strategies for cultural institutions in Australia and New Zealand.

