

Vanesha Manuturi, Communications and Advocacy Manager at Kota Kita Foundation

Vanesha Manuturi is the Communications and Advocacy Manager at Kota Kita Foundation, a non-profit organization in Surakarta (Solo), Indonesia working to promote participatory approaches towards more inclusive, equitable, and resilient cities for all. At Kota Kita, she leads and coordinates various advocacy, communications, and outreach initiatives to amplify insights, knowledge, and practices about inclusive and meaningful citizen participation in urban development. With a decade of experience in media and communications, she is passionate about the transformative power of storytelling in driving social movements and creating a more equitable and socially just society. Her perspectives on inclusive development have been featured in outlets, including the Jakarta Globe, the Jakarta Post, the Next Billion, and UNESCO Inclusive Policy Lab, and she actively engages with networks such as the Global Platform for Right to the City and the World Human Right Cities Forum.

LinkedIn: <https://www.linkedin.com/in/vaneshamanuturi/>