UNICEF

Timothy Holford serves as the Chief of Investigations at the Office of Internal Audit and Investigations (OIAI), UNICEF, based in New York. Since assuming this role in 2020, Timothy has overseen complex internal investigations across a wide range of issues, including cases spanning the full spectrum of possible misconduct involving UNICEF staff and partner organizations worldwide. Leading a diverse and geographically dispersed team, Timothy is regularly engaged in crisis management, risk mitigation, and developing best-practice strategies to conduct and streamline investigative processes.

Prior to UNICEF, Timothy held roles within the UN criminal tribunal world, contributing to high-profile international investigations into terrorism, war crimes and targeted attacks. Timothy's early career was spent practicing insolvency law and commercial litigation.
