7 – 9 OCTOBER, HANOI, VIETNAM.

JOHANNA LASKER

Global Head of Central Banks and Official Institutions
BNP Paribas Asset Management

Johanna Lasker is the Global Head of Central Banks and Official Institutions at BNP Paribas Asset Management, where she is responsible for managing and growing the firm's official sector business globally while ensuring clients' needs are met in key areas such as training and investment excellence. From 2021 to July 2026, she also served as CEO of BNP Paribas Asset Management North America, where she was responsible for strategic leadership, business development, management oversight, and governance across the region.

Johanna first joined the firm in 1997 and rejoined in 2004 to focus on the official institutions business. Since 2013, she has led the Central Banks and Official Institutions team, successfully growing the client base and increasing assets under management for the sector. Prior to this, she worked in Corporate Finance at UBS for two years in New York before transferring to Tokyo, where she lived for a year. She has over 20 years of experience.

Ms. Lasker earned an MBA in Finance and International Business from New York University (NYU) and a BA in East Asian Studies from Stanford University.
