

Amy Scott

Less Friction More Fun

Amy is super passionate about people getting the best out of not just themselves, and the people around them, but also the best out of the events that they attend! Often opportunities to truly connect are lost when people aren't aware of the different communication styles. This can prevent conversations going deeper or connections being made. Understanding the different communication styles (based on a NZ made methodology) removes so much unintended communication friction. Amy's been described as an energiser bunny who adds value to any room she enters regardless of whether she's on the stage or off it. She is a maestro at helping people to connect.

Biography:

A force fuelled by her love for people and her dedication to cultivating thriving team dynamics. Formerly a seasoned lawyer, Amy's mantra of "less friction, more fun" is the heartbeat of her mission.

Raised amidst the tranquil landscapes of rural Central Otago, New Zealand, Amy's early adventures included representing New Zealand in ice hockey as well as working in wool sheds. Her eight-year legal career polished her into a strategic thinker with a keen eye for detail. However, Amy's path took a transformative turn when she discovered the groundbreaking "dots communication" tool—a Kiwi innovation that has captivated more than 37,000 individuals across diverse industries throughout NZ and Australia.

Known affectionately as the "dots lady," Amy's vibrant energy and 'down to earth' approach have reshaped how people communicate and collaborate.

Strap yourself in for a fast paced, engaging & entertaining presentation. Amy's main aim is to empower individuals to unlock their full potential through effective communication. Expect to walk away armed with practical tools and a renewed passion for authentic connections in your professional and personal worlds!