

JACOB CHOI

Facilitator, William Ah Ket Foundation and School of Cybernetics Affiliate

Following the Masters of Applied Cybernetics, Jacob worked on AI implementation in the Australian Army, becoming a bridge between Microsoft engineers and Australian Army combat brigade users of a natural language processing project in 2021.

Jacob has since worked at the National Portrait Gallery as Executive Officer to the Director, facilitated leadership programs for Asian Australians and digital hygiene workshops to help executive leaders to intentionally use their digital devices.

Jacob studied the Masters to understand how cybernetics shapes our emerging technology, the role of faith and worldview in our perceptions of agency, and to network with professionals outside of Defence. Jacob has since remained part of ANU, returning to participate in the William Ah Ket Leadership Program, facilitating its return and joining Crossroads Church at ANU Kambri every Sunday.
