

DR HENRY IVARATURE

Deputy Director, ANU Pacific Security
College

Associate Professor Henry Ivarature, from Papua New Guinea, is the Deputy Director of Stakeholder Engagement at the Pacific Security College. He has held senior roles with PNG Sustainable Development Program, Government of Papua New Guinea, the Pacific Islands Forum Secretariat (PIFS), International Institute for Democracy and Electoral Assistance (International IDEA) and Abt Associates.

Associate Professor Ivarature holds a PhD in sociology from Victoria University of Wellington, New Zealand. His current research interests include political instability in Melanesia and Pacific regionalism. His latest publication is titled ‘The hidden dimension to political instability: Insights from ministerial durations in Papua New Guinea from 1972-2017’, which was published in Asia & the Pacific Policy Studies (2022).