

A/Prof Nader Naderpajouh

Dr Naderpajouh is Head of School of Project Management, where he also leads the "Organising Risk and Resilience" research lab. His main area of research focuses on collective action and organising across social, technical and ecological systems. He serves as an Associate Editor for journals including the Journal of Management in Engineering by the American Society of Civil Engineers (ASCE), and as a member of the Editorial Board of journals including the International Journal of Project Management (IJPM), while he serves as a referee for over 30 academic journals. His portfolio of research to date includes 34 research projects that generated total research funding of A$17,301,024 from a range of national and international, public and private organisations. Dr Naderpajouh is actively engaged with research communities, industry partners and government agencies across Australia, New Zealand, Europe, USA, UK, Middle East and Asia through educating practitioners, advising and mentoring future scholars, assisting communities, and consulting industry partners and government agencies.