

STUDY THE MASTER OF CLINICAL NURSING AT CQU

Enhance your career as a registered nurse with a postgraduate qualification in clinical nursing with CQUniversity.

CAREER FOCUSED

Enhance your career as a registered nurse with a Master of Clinical Nursing (CL22). This course develops your clinical nursing skills, examines contemporary health issues and expands your capabilities in researching health issues and contemporary nursing practice.

You will be able to apply the content you cover in this course to your work environment, enhancing your skills, knowledge and experiences as a clinical nurse.

CLINICAL EXPERIENCE

You will study 12 units that cover diverse content in a clinical nursing context, including leadership in healthcare, learning in a clinical context, clinical governance and patient deterioration. Your study also has a strong focus on professional practice in a clinical specialisation. Within this course, you will complete a research project that allows you to explore a primary healthcare issue in your clinical specialisation area.

Your studies are a partnership between CQUniversity, our recognised partner organisations and yourself.

To participate in this course, you must be working at one of our partner hospitals in Brisbane, Bundaberg, Cairns, Gladstone, Hervey Bay, Mackay, Maryborough, Port Pirie (South Australia), Rockhampton, or Townsville, or with the Central West Hospital and Health Service, North West Hospital and Health Service, South West Hospital and Health Service or Far West Local Health District (NSW). You may also enrol through the non-partnered pathway.

You will be able to focus your professional practice studies in one of our recognised speciality areas:

- Generalist nursing
- Medical-surgical nursing
- Gerontology nursing.

FLEXIBLE STUDY OPTIONS

This course is available to study online, giving you the flexibility to balance your work, personal and other commitments with your study. There are no residential schools required for this course.
