NAIROBI, KENYA

IN COLLABORATION WITH

Solomon J. Simutowe

Principal Business Development and Promotion Officer, Public-Private Partnership Office Ministry of Finance and National Planning

Solomon has been working on PPPs for about 8 years and he is responsible for business development, capacity building, and publicity and advocacy. His roles include developing PPP project concepts and pre-feasibility studies in collaboration with contracting authorities, analysing the commercial viability of PPP projects, PPP procurement and negotiations.

Previously to his work at the PPP Office, Solomon worked for Bank of China (Zambia) as Credit Officer. Since then, he has been in Government first serving as an Economist at Ministry of Commerce, Trade and Industry. While at the Ministry, he was seconded full time as Project Officer to the European Union – Capacity Building for Private Sector Development (EU-CBPSD) project before moving to Ministry of Foreign Affairs, as Senior Economist in the Development Cooperation unit.

Solomon has an MBA from Edith Cowan University, Graduate Certificate in International Studies from the University of Queensland, and Diploma in Trade Policy from the University of Swaziland.
