The City of Cape Town

Cape Town in September offers a wealth of tourism opportunities as the city emerges from winter into spring.

Visitors can enjoy the blooming flowers of the famous Kirstenbosch National Botanical Garden and the vibrant fields of wildflowers along the West Coast. The milder weather is perfect for outdoor activities such as hiking up Table Mountain, exploring the scenic Cape Peninsula, or visiting the picturesque Winelands. Additionally, September is prime time for whale watching along the coast, particularly in Hermanus, just a short drive from the city. With fewer crowds than the peak summer months, September provides a more relaxed and enjoyable experience for tourists.
