

Prof Carol-Ann Benn

South Africa

Prof Carol-Ann Benn, Extraordinary Professor with the Department of Immunology at the University of Pretoria and a Fellow of the College of Surgeons of South Africa, is an outstanding oncology expert with a special interest in Breast Disease. With over 20 years of experience as the Head of Breast Units in both public and private sectors, she is dedicated to providing healthcare access to all who require it. She has contributed significantly to the medical community through her published and presented work and is recognised internationally as a leader in Breast Disease. Prof Benn established the Breast Health Foundation, various Breast Health Care forums and outreach programmes, and the Netcare Breast Care Centre of Excellence, which is the only internationally accredited unit in South Africa with NAPBC accreditation. Along with her positions of responsibility, she manages continuing research, and her numerous awards testify to her esteemed position in the Medical field and South African society.
