

Associate Professor Franco Henning

South Africa

Franco Henning is an Associate Professor and Specialist Neurologist at Stellenbosch University. His work focuses on neuromuscular medicine, including research into conditions like inflammatory myopathies and the mechanisms of muscle weakness. He is also involved in research collaborations with other institutions and has a clinical practice.

- Title: Associate Professor and Specialist Neurologist
 - University: Stellenbosch University
 - Specialization: Neuromuscular medicine
 - Research: His research includes studying single muscle fibers from patients with inflammatory myopathies to understand muscle weakness. He is also listed as a center principal investigator for a collaborative research project with University College London (UCL) on neuromuscular diseases.
 - Qualifications: He qualified as a neurologist from Stellenbosch University and completed a fellowship in neuromuscular medicine.
 - Affiliations: In addition to his position at Stellenbosch University, he is associated with Tygerberg Academic Hospital and has been involved in collaborations with other research institutions.
-