About the BIMDG Annual Symposium 2026

The British Inherited Metabolic Diseases Group (BIMDG) Annual Symposium is a cornerstone event for healthcare professionals, researchers, and academics dedicated to the field of inherited metabolic diseases. This gathering provides a unique platform for multidisciplinary collaboration, with specialists in clinical practice, research, and patient care coming together to discuss the latest advancements in diagnosis, treatment, and management of metabolic disorders.

Held annually, the BIMDG symposium features a range of presentations and workshops, including clinical case studies, research findings, and discussions on emerging therapies. Attendees benefit from keynote lectures delivered by leading experts, offering insights into cutting-edge developments in metabolic medicine. The event fosters open dialogue on the challenges and opportunities in the field, with ample opportunities for networking and collaboration among professionals across different areas of expertise.

The symposium is known for its focus on continuing education, offering professionals updates on guidelines, treatment protocols, and innovative approaches to managing inherited metabolic diseases. Poster sessions and oral presentations allow for a deeper dive into specific research projects, while interactive workshops provide hands-on learning experiences. Overall, the BIMDG Annual Symposium plays a crucial role in advancing knowledge and enhancing patient care in this highly specialised area of medicine.

In accordance with the latest ABPI Guidelines, we want to ensure that all delegates attending whether Healthcare Professionals, non-Healthcare Professionals*, Other Relevant Decision Makers or non-Other Relevant Decision Makers* can engage effectively while adhering to regulatory standards. All delegates are a highly valued and an integral part of our conference community. Their presence enriches the event and helps create meaningful dialogue around patient-centred care.

To maintain compliance anyone attending the conference who is not classified as a HCP or ORDM will not be permitted to view or access any pharmaceutical products being promoted or sold by sponsors or exhibitors. Anyone who is not a HCP or ORDM will not be allowed into the exhibition area. However, we have implemented measures to facilitate their participation while respecting these guidelines.

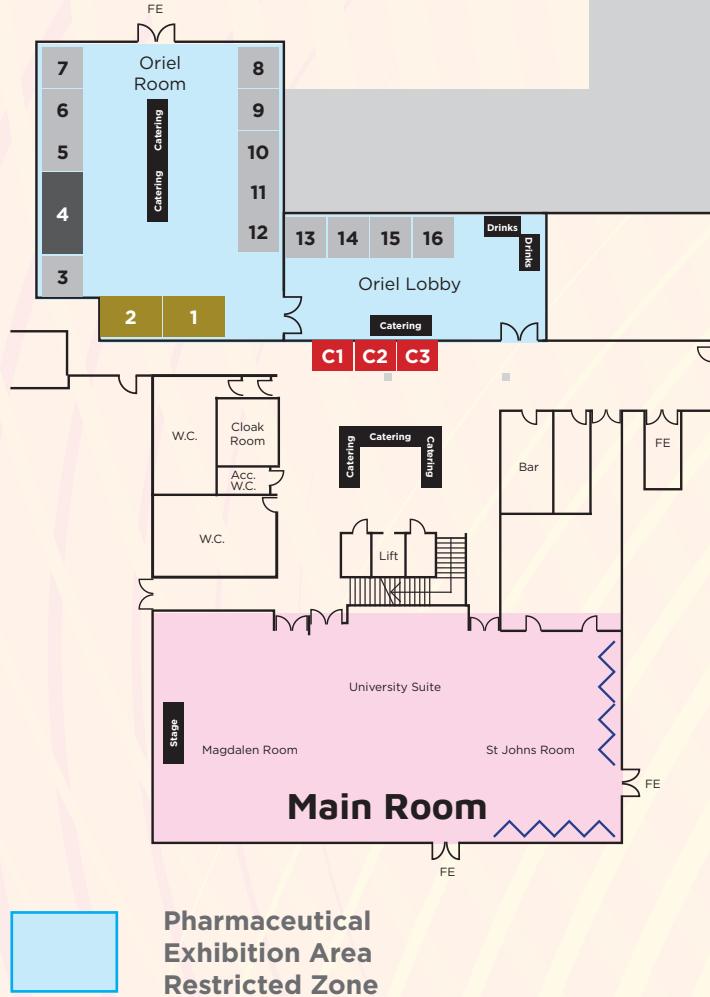

Attendees who are unable to enter the exhibition area will be identified by a different coloured lanyard/badge. This measure is to ensure that sponsors and exhibitors can quickly recognise which attendees are Non-Healthcare Professionals.

We appreciate your understanding and cooperation in this matter. Your support is vital in creating a respectful and compliant environment that values all participants, especially our non-HCPs and ORDMs, who play a crucial role in advancing patient research and dialogue.

* For clarity non-HCP's & non-ORDM's are classed as member of the public
