

Accounting Sustainability in the Mediterranean Region

Department of Finance, University of Luxembourg
Edoardo Pizzoli, Edoardo.pizzoli@uni.lu, Senior researcher

Abstract

Accounting and statistical reporting is important support for policy decision making, especially in this age of data and knowledge base needed at all levels. The statistical information systems around the world are changing as fast as new technology.

In this evolving context, accounts and assessments system are growing as well as important tools, going far beyond the standard core business and macro-micro level accounts. Regional accounts, as meso-level system, can support analysis on sustainability for the Mediterranean region.