First of all: Microsoft educator center

The screenshot shows the Microsoft Educator Center website in a browser. The browser's address bar displays 'education.microsoft.com/en-us'. The page features a blue header with the Microsoft logo and 'Educator Center' text, followed by navigation links: Training, Lesson Plans, Programs, Products, and Resources. The main content area has a large blue banner with the heading 'Set up your hybrid learning classroom'. Below this heading is a paragraph: 'A focused learning environment can be a challenge in hybrid learning. Microsoft Education is here to support multimedia experiences that keep educators, students, and families connected.' A 'GET STARTED >' button is positioned to the left of an illustration depicting a desk with a computer monitor, a laptop, books, and a small globe. Below the banner, a section titled 'Popular training and resources to get started' includes two tabs: 'K-12 Educators' (which is selected) and 'Higher Education'. Under the 'K-12 Educators' tab, there are four small rectangular images showing various educational scenarios: a boy and a girl looking at a tablet, a group of students in a modern classroom, a boy and a girl working on a laptop, and a student sitting at a desk in a classroom.

Le nord de la France n'a pas de chance

Le mois dernier a été particulièrement éprouvant pour les habitants de Lille et des environs. En l'espace de trois jours, il a plu l'équivalent de ce qu'il pleut d'habitude en un mois et de nombreuses rivières sont sorties de leur lit, inondant la campagne et forçant les habitants de certains villages à quitter leur domicile pour se réfugier chez leurs proches ou dans des gymnases prévus à cet effet. Et malheureusement, ce sont souvent les mêmes personnes qui avaient déjà été touchées par les inondations de 2014 et qui venaient à peine de terminer les travaux dans leurs maisons. Beaucoup sont complètement découragés et parlent de déménager.

Cette semaine, les choses n'ont fait qu'empirer puisqu'il a neigé abondamment et que les températures sont tombées à moins sept degrés à certains endroits dans le département du Nord. Il semble que la neige ait pris les automobilistes par surprise et comme ils n'étaient pas équipés et qu'on n'avait pas encore mis de sel, même sur les autoroutes, des centaines de
