UK Space Weather and Space Environment Meeting I: Transitioning from the SWIMMR Space-Weather Programme Cyfarfod Tywydd y Gofod ac Amgylchedd Gofod y DU I: Pontio o Raglen Tywydd y Gofod SWIMMR.

We are pleased to announce the inaugural UK Space Weather and Space Environment (UKSWSE) Meeting, jointly organised by the Institute of Physics (IOP), UKRI STFC RAL Space and the Met Office. It will be held in Cardiff, UK, 12–15 September 2023.

This meeting is timed to coincide with the latter part of the £20M Space Weather Instrumentation, Measurement, Modelling and Risk (SWIMMR) four-year Programme to improve the UK's capabilities in space-weather monitoring and prediction, and also to build off the success of the UK hosting of ESWW2021 in Glasgow.

The long long-term purpose of this new series of UK Space Weather and Space Environment Meetings is to bring together communities across all space safety science and research, engineering, forecasting, end-users, and policy makers across the various UK interests and activities. This includes, but is not limited to, involvement in the SWIMMR Programme itself, as well as the ESA Space Safety Programme, and in future-proofing such activities beyond the end of current projects, missions, and programmes of relevance. This year's meeting will be heavily focussed on the SWIMMR Programme and transitioning to the future as it draws to a close.

This first event will include sessions covering areas such as Instrumentation, Industry and Users, Policy and Strategy, Space Weather Science, Modelling, and Forecasting, Space Sustainability, and Space Domain Awareness (SST, SSA, Space Environment) along with SWIMMR. Included will be four days of invited and contributed talks, poster sessions, a social programme, and an exhibition for companies working within the space sector or within industries and operations which can be impacted by space weather. We expect 120 plus participants to attend across the space environment sector.

In addition to the exhibition, we also have a range of sponsorship packages which have been designed to maximise exposure both before, during and after the event. UKSWSE will showcase the work the UK is doing to increase preparedness and resilience in case of a severe space weather impact. We hope you will consider supporting this event either by booking a stand, providing sponsorship, or through participation. We look forward to offering you a warm welcome to Cardiff (Croeso i Gaerdydd).
