The London Imaging Meeting (LIM) is a leading international conference dedicated to exploring the future of imaging science and its impact across scientific disciplines.

The 2026 edition, Imaging for Science, will bring together researchers, innovators, academics, and industry professionals working across the entire imaging ecosystem. LIM offers a focused, high-quality forum for knowledge exchange, collaboration, and discovery at the cutting edge of imaging research and technology.

LIM 2026 opens with a dedicated Summer School, followed by two days of keynote lectures, invited and contributed talks, and poster presentations, showcasing the most exciting advances in imaging science. A peer-reviewed conference proceedings volume accompanies the event, extending the impact of the meeting beyond the conference itself.

With a typical attendance of 75–100 delegates from academia and industry, LIM provides an intimate and highly engaged environment, with a strong emphasis on early career researchers and students – the future leaders of the imaging community.

As imaging increasingly converges with data science, artificial intelligence, and automation, close collaboration between academia and industry is essential to translate innovation into real-world, scalable solutions. LIM 2026 offers a unique platform for industrial partners to engage directly with cutting-edge research, emerging technologies, and future talent.

We warmly invite you to join us at LIM 2026.
