

Particle Accelerators and Beams Conference 2024

Sponsorship opportunities

To whom it may concern

The UK's national Particle Accelerators and Beams Conference will take place on 11th and 12th June 2024, hosted by the Dalton Cumbrian Facility. Now in its third year as a two-day meeting, the conference is well established as the UK's premier national event in the field of particle accelerators.

Bringing together the entire community, this in-person event will comprise two days of vibrant physics discussion, knowledge sharing, and networking. We are expecting around 150 scientists, many of whom will be early career, mostly from the UK and some from further afield to listen to talks from key figures across the different major areas of particle accelerator science and technology. The first day will feature a poster session and drinks reception in the evening, followed by a conference dinner.

This is an excellent opportunity for your company to raise its profile and show its support for this community, while providing opportunities to talk with students and researchers who may be looking to take the next step in their careers, as well as decision makers who will be looking for suppliers to help realize their accelerator projects. We would like to offer you the opportunity to sponsor this event and have several sponsorship opportunities listed below.
