The organising committee invite you to support this conference by booking a stand or sponsorship package. In return we promise a warm welcome and a rewarding scientific experience.

ISSC-24 is the latest meeting in the series of interdisciplinary surface science conferences covering all experimental and theoretical aspects of surfaces, interfaces and nanoscale physics and chemistry. ISSC is a biennial event usually attracting 120 participants from across the UK and Europe.

This conference features invited and contributed talks covering a full breadth of topics, poster presentations, and a commercial exhibition with companies that have interests in the area of instrumentation and software.

For further information, visit the website at iop.eventsair.com/issc2023. We hope you can join us in Manchester!
