The organising committee invite you to support this conference by booking a stand or sponsorship package. In return we promise a warm welcome and rewarding scientific experience.

UK Nuclear Physics 2023 is the latest meeting in the series of Nuclear Physics conferences covering all aspects of nuclear physics research with speakers from the UK and abroad. UK Nuclear Physics is an annual event that usually attracts participants from across the UK and Europe.

This conference features invited and contributed talks covering a wide range of topics, poster presentations, and a commercial exhibition with companies that have interests in nuclear physics, detectors, instrumentation and more.

For further information, visit the website at iop.eventsair.com/np2023.

We hope you can join us in York!
