Auditing Wildland Fire Management

Perspectives from the United States

An Auditor's Perspective

- Findings: criteria, condition, cause, effect Recommendations
- Efficiency and effectiveness
- Performance metrics
- Not prescriptive—examine planning and process not dictate policy outcomes

Auditing Wildfire Can Be Tricky

- Multiple agencies
- Multiple levels of government
- Some activities plannable, others are emergency response
- Interrelated program components (preparedness, fuels, suppression)
- Low probability, high risk
- Professional judgment plays critical role

GAO Has Reviewed Many Wildfire Issues

- Recruiting and retaining federal firefighters
- Containing suppression costs
- Aviation contracting
- Fuels reduction/prescribed fire
- Budget development
- Collaboration with nonfederal partners
- Wildfire smoke (federal fire agencies & EPA)
- Post-fire recovery (FEMA)

Cohesive Strategy

- Multiple reports, spanning more than a decade (GAO-99-65, GAO-05-147, GAO-06-671R, GAO-09-877)
- Recommendation evolved over time; reflecting both agencies' and GAO's growing awareness of interconnected elements and that intermediate steps needed (LANDFIRE, FPA)
- Congress passed the FLAME Act in 2010, directing the agencies to develop a cohesive strategy consistent with GAO's recommendations
- Agencies released a cohesive strategy document (2014)
- Implementation ongoing

Barriers to Recruiting and Retaining Federal Firefighters (GAO-23-105517)

Source: GAO analysis of information from the Departments of Agriculture and the Interior and selected nonfederal stakeholders. | GAO-23-105517

- Descriptive report (no recommendations)
- Provide Congress with timely information on ongoing multiple agency actions
- Talked to agency officials and a sample of 16 stakeholder organizations
- Expand discussion beyond pay issues

Disaster Resilience Framework

- Emerging framework (GAO-20- 100SP), based heavily on reviewing response to disasters such as hurricanes and floods
- Nation's approach to wildfire is different than for other disasters
- Framework examines all level of government and private sector (not just federal)

Disaster Resilience Framework

Principles for Analyzing Federal Efforts to Facilitate and Promote Resilience to Natural Disasters

6A0-20-1005P

Disaster Resilience Framework

Principle: Information Integration Incentives Accessing information that Integrated analysis and Incentives can help to make is authoritative and planning can help decision long-term, forward-looking risk-reduction investments understandable can help makers take coherent and decision makers to identify current and coordinated resilience actions. more viable and attractive among future risk and the impact of risk-reduccompeting priorities. tion strategies. Source: GAO-21-275SP | GAO-22-105688

Do decision makers know where structures and lives are at greatest fire risk? Is there an overarching strategic vision? What role do various levels of government play, and how do they reconcile their different responsibilities? Are there ways to better align incentives related to development in fireprone areas (e.g., incentives for states and localities to adopt stronger building codes and zoning)?
