What are cookies?

Cookies are small text files that can be exchanged with the browser when a user visits a particular website, allowing the web server to store information on the browser to be reused on the next visit. Cookies are stored, based on user preferences, by the individual browser on the specific device used (computer, tablet, mobile phone or other mobile device) or browser.

The cookies of the so-called "third parties" are, however, set by a website other than the one the User is visiting. This is because on each site there may be elements (images, maps, sounds, specific links to web pages of other domains, etc.) that reside on servers other than that of the site visited.

Cookies are used for different purposes: performing computer authentication, monitoring sessions, storing information on specific configurations regarding users who access the server, storing preferences, etc.

How many types of cookies are there?

There are different types of cookies, with different characteristics and uses:

- Technical cookies: these are essential cookies for the correct functioning of the site and are used to transmit a communication over an electronic communications network.

How does this Site use cookies?

This Site uses technical cookies to make use of the site more user-friendly. Among these it uses session cookies, which expire when the browser is closed.

- .ASPXANONYMOUS
