The Generations Game: Cambridge v Rest of the World

"The most important game of football since 1863"

This event will bring together the world's leading brain injury neuroscientists and clinicians, football coaches, ex-professional players and recreational players to showcase the English Football Associations recent U9 rule changes regarding heading and the science behind the decision.

Sunday, September 1st

Hosted at: Parker's Piece, Cambridge, CBI INA - where the rules of football were first established in 1863.

Come along any time that you have availability. You don't need to be a footballer.

Hosted by: Head Safe Football, the only UK charity delivering HeadSAFE education to share information about the risks of head impacts, in collaboration with the International Neurotrauma Society and TBI-REPORTER.

3:45pm-5pm: On-Field HeadSAFE Education

Play and Learn from the leading global HeadSAFE curriculum that brings 'science to the field' and supports coaches, educators, scientists, and players to learn about heading (RHI) and protecting the brain.

5:15pm-6:45pm: Bill Gates Legacy* Match

The match will be played in teams Cambridge Versus The Rest of the World and will be played according to the 1863 Rules of Football, then the current rules of football, then the new FA U9 rules, and end by imagining what rules might look like in the future. *Bill Gates 1944-2023, central defender Middlesbrough FC 1961-1974

7pm: Refreshments at the Grain and Hop
