

Associate Professor Desiré Brits is from the School of Anatomical Sciences, Faculty of Health Sciences, University of the Witwatersrand. She has ±14 years of teaching experience in human anatomy and forensic anthropology at undergraduate and postgraduate level. She is coordinator of the Human Identification Unit (HIU) of the Human Variation and Identification Research Unit (HVIRU), School of Anatomical Sciences and regularly consults on forensic anthropology cases for the South African Police Service (SAPS) and Forensic Pathology Services (FPS). Her current research interests include bone trauma and taphonomy. She is an associate member of the American Academy of Forensic Sciences (AAFS), a member of the International Academy of Legal Medicine / Forensic Anthropology Society of Europe (FASE) and a life time member of the Anatomical Society of Southern Africa (ASSA) where she has served on Council since 2012.