About event

Welcome to the 39th Annual Meeting of the European Section of the International Society for Heart Research (ISHR), which will be held from Monday 22 - Thursday 25 June 2026. The meeting will take place on the beautiful University of Birmingham campus, located in leafy Edgbaston, a historic suburb of Birmingham, a city renowned for its key role in the Industrial Revolution.

The meeting promises to be an exceptional scientific event for our community, taking place at a time of remarkable advancements in cardiovascular research. The Organising Committee will be crafting an exciting and dynamic programme, with topics ranging from novel molecular insights into cardiovascular disease to advances in cardiac regeneration, imaging techniques, and therapeutic innovations. We are excited to present four days of cutting-edge science and stimulating discussions, complemented by a stellar line up of speakers.

In addition to the scientific sessions, the programme will feature numerous opportunities for early career investigators, poster presentations, and ample networking opportunities. This will be a fantastic chance to reconnect with colleagues and forge new collaborations, all in the vibrant and historic city of Birmingham.

About the venue

Founded in 1900, the University of Birmingham was the UK's first civic university, where students from all religions and backgrounds were accepted on an equal basis. Today, it continues in the same innovative spirit as a World Top 100 University and a leading research institution.

ISHR-ES will be held on the central campus, taking place in the Teaching and Learning Centre, which opened in January 2020. Located at the heart of campus and overlooking the Green Heart, this stunningly modern facility serves as a hub for education, offering state-of-the-art teaching and social study spaces.

It features a 500-seat traditional lecture theatre, a 250-seater interactive lecture theatre, up to 10 breakout spaces, and charge points at every seat, all supported by specialist AV services to enhance the modern learning experience at Birmingham.

The exhibition will be open between Monday 22 June and Thursday 25 June 2026
